A real example showing how international supply intelligence identified developing market activity before UK pricing responded. Supply alerts highlighted increasing pressure in March, while UK pricing did not begin to move until late April.

- Approximately two months' earlier visibility before UK pricing changed.
- Compare Drug Tariff, pharmacy purchase prices, quotations and concession pricing on a single timeline.
- Review the underlying pricing records supporting every data point.
- Understand how pricing behaviour develops alongside supply activity.

The March subscriber alert can be provided to demonstrate when this developing supply issue was first identified
